1.10 WE are advised by the Secretary of the Punjom Mining Co. of the receipt of a telegram announcing that ten tons of the quartz debris remaining after the washing of the gold-bearing dirt at Gubau has been crushed at Jalis, and that 63 ounces of gold was obtained.

To-DAY at the Marine Magistrate's Court, 12:00 the Hon W. C. H. Hastings fined the mester of the Hang Chicong steam launch $62, with the alternative of three months imprisonment, for carrying 24 passengers in excess of the number allowed by his licence, on 29th alt., and for not alopping $1.20 when called upon to do so .- The master and the owner of the Hong Ma launch were charged with carrying passengers in excess of the licenced number. They denied the charge and were defended by Mr 2.50 Dennys. After hearing the evidence Mr Hustings dismissed the accused:

> Sevenat of car readers have saked what the circumstances are which prevent us from congratulating the Secretary of State upon the choice of the New Colonial Secretary. Probably not a single resident of Hougkong has ever heard of Mr G. T. M. O'Brien's existence, so that, whatever may be that officer's ability, no personal question can possibly arise. Our new Governor, however, is as yet strange to the Colony, and it is sufficiently evident that our present staff of public servants has been bereft of late of mearly every one of its old and experienced heads of departmonts. It was therefore a prime necessity that an officer with knowledge and experiones of the Colony, its conditions and requirements, should have been appointed the chief advisor of His Excellency. Instead of this, a gentleman, whose experience of the Chinese and the peculiar straimstances of Hongkong must be absolutely sil, has been given the post. Our requirements are manifestly secrificed to the exigencies of the Crown Colonial Service, and the Secretary of State can acardly be congritulated

notice of the police. In the course of the morning, the watchman on board the Holsiem observed a man in the water. On being taken on board the man, who proved to be a Japanese staman, named Kotchi Yanego, told a strange story, which, if found to be correct, ought to lead to some decided action on the part of the authorities. He states that, along with another Jap, he went on board a British steamer as a stowayay at one of the Japanus ports. After being discovered, the men were set to work until Hongkong was reached, and during the stay of the steamer in the Harbour they were kept orking on board all day and then placed in from and looked up all night. This want in for nearly a week and at last the mon but desperate, and succeeding in breaking their irons and butsting open the want found: Shan, Nov. 21, Wo. REFERENCE to the collision between the Japanese steamer Tolkai Maru and British barque Thirlemere, which occurred near Yokohama on the 30th uit., the Japon Advertiser says :- It is to be hoped that n returning to the port of Yokohama after being in collision with a sailing ship outside, the master of the Tokar Maru took a course for which he is able to furn sh good smuggling to the shoulders of grounds. We have no desire to judge his attention should be drawn to the conduct stances should act similarly. The captain of the Tokai has declined to furnish information with reference to the event. That of course is his business. But be cannot blame us if we publish the story of the other side, and that story-always subject to his contradiction-is briefly that the Toker Marie attempted to cross the bows of a sailing ship close-hauled; failing to do so, c lided with her, and having his own upper works much damaged by the bows of the other, put about and returned to port without troubling himself to enquire as to the result of the occurrence. Suppose that the Thirlmere had been so seriously damaged about the boys as to cause her sinking, or that another gale such as she bad been battling against for the best part of a fortnight had sprung up immediately after the collision, what sort of position, we should like to ask, would the captain of the Tokai Mare have found himself in ?
